Have an Idea for an Article Submission?

The ASI is seeking article submissions for See Also. If you have something to say, ASI wants to hear it!

Whether you are new to ASI or you have been a long time member, consider submitting an article. We are looking for personal stories, blogs, book reviews, angry rants, tips, tricks, and more. If you want to share something with the ASI community, this is the place to do it.

Submitting articles is a good exercise in meeting deadlines and working with an editor. Submissions earn a chance to be featured in the monthly article. If you are anxious about the quality of your work, know that you will receive constructive feedback.

If you would like to see your article on the homepage, consider these guidelines:

- Preview the provided themes for the upcoming months on this page.
- Adapt your topic and article to fit the month's theme.
- Remember that members of the ASI and first-time visitors compose the audience.
- Use MLA formatting and include a citation page.
- Submit your article, standard indents and margins, single-space, as a PDF.
- Keep article submissions within 800-1500 words in length.
- Send your draft as a PDF or DOCX file to Jane Doe at JDoe@asindexing.org
- Submit your article early to ensure ample time to receive feedback.

Authors will be contacted regarding their submissions within a business day.

Reach out to ASI editor Jane Doe with any questions regarding submissions.

Look out for theme details on upcoming months here.
